

Running a Night

Everything an organiser does on a Friday, in order. Print it and keep it in the chip box. It assumes nothing except that you can sign in.

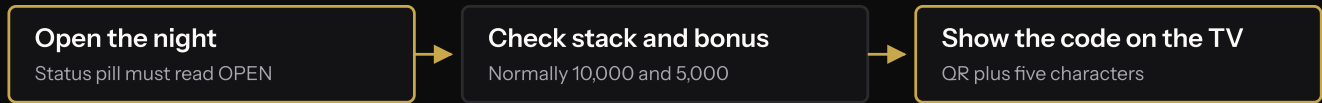

The two screens that matter: the code at the door, and the chase list at the end.

If everything breaks, the night is still fine. Reporting stays open until 09 : 00 the next morning, and an organiser can enter every result afterwards from the paper sheets. There is no situation where a night is lost.

The shape of a night

BEFORE YOU LEAVE HOME

AT THE DOORS AND DURING

AT THE END

What you are actually doing

Chips leave the box only against a slip on a player's screen. Points move only from what gets reported. Your job is to read numbers off phones, and at the end to make sure nobody left without reporting.

Everything else the system handles: the arithmetic, the one-top-up rule, who is allowed what. You never do mental maths.

The one mistake that ends a night before it starts: forgetting to press Open night. Until you do, the status pill says DRAFT and nobody in the room can check in.

Before you leave home

- 1. Sign in at `storeblindernpoker.org/admin`. If it says "Organisers only", you are on the wrong account.
- 2. Find tonight in the Nights list and select it.
- 3. Press Open night. The pill must change to OPEN.
- 4. Glance at the stack and bonus on the night row. Normally 10,000 and +5,000. Lower the stack only if there are not enough chips, and do it now, before anyone checks in.
- 5. Press Show the code on the TV.

Creating a night

Nights are usually made in advance. If you need a new one, New night takes a date, a title, and the two numbers. Leave the checkbox Counts toward season points ticked unless it is a stand-alone special such as an Omaha night.

A night is created as a DRAFT. Draft nights are invisible to members except for RSVP, which is deliberate: you can set next month up without anyone being able to check in early.

Counts toward season points

Untick for a stand-alone special (an Omaha night, say); results and chips are still recorded, the season leaderboard is untouched.

Stack size (chips per buy-in)

10000

Lower it on a chip-shortage night (9,780 has happened).

Attendance bonus (points)

5000

Create night (as draft)

New night. The defaults are a normal Friday, so most weeks you only set the date.

At the doors

Put the code on the TV. Players scan the QR or type the five characters, and their phone becomes a slip.

The slip says GIVE (their name) and a number. Read the number, count out that many chips. It is usually 10,000, but not always: a player low on points buys in short, and on a chip-shortage night the whole room does.

The slip is right, your habit is wrong. Always read the number rather than assuming a full stack.

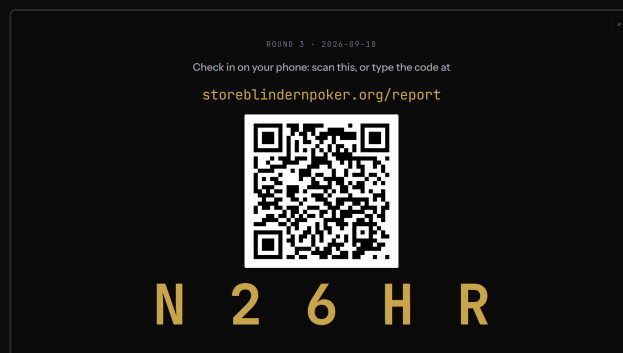

Somebody cannot sign up

Do not fight it and do not let a queue build. Take their pseudonym on paper, and use Report on behalf later. They can create their account any time afterwards, claim the same pseudonym, and the points will be waiting for them. This is tested and it works.

Somebody has no phone at all

Exactly the same answer. Paper now, proxy later.

A slip marked RE-SHOW in red is an old slip being shown again, not a new one. Do not hand out chips for it twice.

What goes on the TV. The QR carries the code, so most people never type it.

During, and at the end

During play the app stays in everyone's pocket. Top-ups work like buy-ins: a slip, a number, count the chips. One top-up per player per night, enforced by the system.

The list that matters

Not reported yet is the loudest block on the page for a reason. At the end of the night, walk it out loud before anyone leaves. For each name, either they report on their phone or you type it in.

Check their phone actually says "Sent". If it still says Sending or Saved on this phone, the number has not reached the server. Type it in yourself. Do not assume.

Then

- 1. Close reporting.
- 2. Settle night. It asks you to confirm.
- 3. Look at the leaderboard. It should have moved.

Chips not balancing does not block settling. The console shows the difference and the night settles anyway. Fix it during the week. Never hold up forty people over a 300-chip discrepancy.

PLAYER	BUY-IN	TOP-UP	FINAL	STATUS
Chip Leader	10,000	0	--	not reported
Rivered	10,000	0	--	not reported
Value Town	10,000	0	--	not reported
Donk Bet	10,000	0	31,500	reported-admin
Kicker	10,000	5,000	8,300	reported-admin
Nine High	10,000	7,500 bank	16,200	reported Void top-up...
Slowroll	10,000	0	22,100	reported-admin
The Rock	10,000	0	14,750	reported-admin
Tilt Merchant	10,000	0	0	reported-admin

Everyone's numbers. bank marks a top-up taken through the app.

Settle: 9 entries: 3 NOT reported (they settle as a zero stack) · chip imbalance -9650 (recorded, never a blocker).

Settle nowCancel

Settling asks first. It is reversible: you can reopen a night.

When something goes wrong

WHAT YOU SEE	WHAT TO DO
A player shows as (unknown member)	They claimed their pseudonym after you opened the console. Press Refresh . If it persists, reload the page.
You settled, then found a wrong number	Press Reopen for corrections first, fix the entry, then Settle night again. Editing a settled night without reopening looks like it worked and changes nothing.
Two of you on the console at once	Do not. One person drives, the other reads the paper sheet aloud. Simultaneous edits to the same player silently overwrite each other.
Someone cannot sign in, or sees an error about too many attempts	The limit is per building, not per person. Take them on paper and proxy them in. Do not let a queue form.
A phone says "Couldn't send, show this to an organiser"	It shows the numbers in large type. Type them into Report on behalf .
A top-up slip was shown but no chips were handed over	Void top-up on that row in the entries table.
The whole site is down	Run the night on paper. Nothing is lost: reporting is open until 09:00 and you can enter everything afterwards. Tell people to check the leaderboard in the morning.

Site is down: what to check, in order

1. Nothing loads at all → Cloudflare. Is the Pages project deployed, is the domain still attached?
2. Loads but has no data → Supabase. Is the project paused? Free-tier projects pause after a quiet spell, most likely over the summer. Restore from the dashboard; nothing is lost.
3. Nobody can sign in → Supabase, Authentication, Rate Limits.
4. A recent change broke it → Cloudflare Pages, Deployments, Rollback to this deployment.

Nobody needs to be woken up for any of this. The paper sheets are the real backup, and the morning deadline means every problem has hours of slack. Fix it over coffee.

Who to call

Organisers: Walrus, Will Ivey, Kingpin (all three can also grant organiser access), and Whiskey, who is in New Zealand and is best for weekday problems rather than Friday nights. Anything else: it@storeblindernpoker.org.
